During her Top 10 presentation, Naomi commented that she started off being really tough on the exhibits, but as she went along she realised that she needed to be more flexible – so she offered apologies to those whose cats she judged early in the day, in that she thinks she may have done some of them a disservice, which they would have escaped if they had been the last, rather than the first to be judged. Naomi's assessments tended to progressively decrease synchronously for each category, head, body and coat, which was not the case for all judges.

Trish found it very hard indeed to find anything at all wrong with a great many of her exhibits, so that of her Top 10, 7 were all 100%, and the rest 99% perfect. This meant that she needed to exercise her discriminating eye to establish in which order these perfect and near perfect cats were to be arranged..... Trish did however find some exhibits where she felt that the heads and bodies were definitely not up to scratch, even though the coats were beautiful. Trish certainly appeared to have become more discriminating and slightly more critical as she handled more and more exhibits, though she did end up with perfect cats in most colours.

As the Breed Founder, I was rather overwhelmed by this opportunity to look at such a cross section of the whole population, and more than a little surprised when my overall assessments were returned to me. There is no doubt that I was influenced by the personality of some of the cats, and I was surprised to find so many browns in my tops – particularly as chocolate and lilac are probably my favourite colours ... and yes Linaria was absent from my top 21 – because I really thought she was too much of a baby to really be as nice as I think she is, when she is sitting on me in bed! I see that I was particularly hard on exhibits which I did not think had the correct body – particularly lack of breadth across the back and chest, strength in the bone and gently rounded, sculpted body contours. (Wasn't very kind to the fat ones, either!)

Rod favoured a very short muzzled, broad head type which falls at one end of the spectrum of the breed, and did confess that he kept track of his totals as he went along – as he did have an idea of how he wanted it to come out! He did however, give weight to good coats, even when heads were not up to standard. His body type assessment tended to follow the head type.

Val had several groups of exhibits which she considered to be of equal merit, and produced overall a very middle of the road Top 10, with cats of different styles being equally represented, each aspect of their coat, conformation and head appeared to be truly independently assessed. The group 13-17 and beyond tended to be heavily advantaged by their coats. The highest awards were good all round, as was the case for all rings. Val also appeared to have marked down the ones where the body type was obscured by too generous upholstery!

TEMPERAMENT

From the Top 15 Scores, our Patron, Mrs Rhondda Watson selected her Top 10 – HANDLING them for the SIXTH time – they certainly deserved their Awards!

I have included the placings of 44 of the 54 exhibits which competed, all of these exhibits achieved at least 40% of the possible score, and none of them received a single minus score. The highest aggregated score achieved was 80%, and all of the cats in the Top 15 from which the final Top 10 was selected achieved an aggregate score of 70% or more. It should be noted that the 'base line' score for a cat which allowed itself to be handled, showed neither resentment nor any particular interest was 0, so that 1 to 10 represented increasingly endearing temperament, with -1 to -10 going in the opposite direction. No exhibit was at any

MYSTERY TOP 10

There was also a little bit of fun for the FCCV Judges attending our event, as their workshop exercise. During the introduction to our day, over coffee and home made fruitcake, a small booklet was handed out to each attendee, containing amongst other things, the revised standard, a complete list of exhibits, a selection of pedigrees marked with cats to be present on the day, and a slip to be filled in by them. I challenged these Judges to pretend for the day that they were 'exhibitors' – observing only, not able to touch exhibits, and at the end of the day to hand in a list of their five best exhibits (not in any order). John collated these as votes of equal value, and while we were intending to make a Top 10 from the results, there were too few votes, and too many exhibits with the same number, so that in the end we simply produced a list of 8 exhibits, in three groups. This was the result:
